Communion before Confirmation – a discussion document for parishes

The Diocesan policy is administered by the Bishop, whose specific agreement is necessary before the practice is introduced in any one parish. Each PCC, or group of PCCs, should apply by completing and submitting the attached application form. The Bishop may wish to discuss the application with the parish priest.

It is suggested that PCCs obtain a copy of 2 helpful Powerpoint presentations 'Children and Communion' and 'Children's Voices' from the Children's Missioner to assist their discussions and decision-making. This can be either in paper or electronic form.

In multi-parish benefices it is not necessary for every PCC to agree in this matter, but any parish that decides not to apply for permission must remember that any communicant child duly admitted, as a communicant child under this procedure, must be received in all parishes of the diocese and throughout the Church of England.

Registration

A hardbacked register should be used to record the names, addresses, dates of birth, and the dates of baptism and admission to communion. This will save repetition at the time of confirmation and provide successors with clear information with regard to the communicant status of children and young people in the parish. A certificate of admission should be given to each person admitted. A sample certificate and a sample page for the register is attached.

Confirmation

It is understood that people admitted to communion before confirmation will usually, in due course, proceed to confirmation. It is expected that 'children' will proceed to confirmation by the age of 18. Confirmation completes the initiation process. For adults, confirmation will normally follow shortly afterwards. Only those baptised may be admitted to communion.

Preparation

Each parish or benefice must provide appropriate preparation suitable to the age and understanding of those wishing to receive. The Bishop will wish to see evidence of this provision when the parish makes its application. The Children's Missioner can suggest different courses of preparation.

Admission

The day of admission should be decided and publicised in advance. A clear announcement should be made at the start of the actual service or whenever the notices are given. Parishes may like to use "Admission of the Baptized to Communion on page 188 of Common Worship Christian. The Bishop will not make decisions about individuals although he is always ready to be consulted.

Nurture

Each parish applying must make arrangements for the continuing nurture of those admitted to communion under this scheme. The Bishop will wish to see evidence of this provision when the parish makes its application. It should not be assumed that everyone will be supported in their faith development by their family.

School Eucharists

The expectation of the Bishop, along with the National Society, is that the Eucharist will be regularly celebrated in all church schools, with appropriate and ongoing teaching. The parish priest, in consultation with the headteacher and foundation governors, must decide whom, within the school community, may be invited to receive the Holy Communion. The Diocesan Board of Education can provide guidance on this.

January 2008

Admission of baptised children to Holy Communion

Step by step

- Open the discussion with the PCC, having done some initial research, referring to recent reports and Diocesan Advisers, if necessary
- Consult with the congregation, perhaps through an open meeting. It may be helpful to use the Powerpoint presentations, 'Children's Voices' and 'Communion before Confirmation', available from the Children's Missioner
- After further discussion, the PCC makes a decision as to whether to proceed further
- Feedback the decision to the congregation
- If proceeding, consult with children's leaders about a preparation programme
- Identify leaders for the preparation course
- Consider the implications for the pattern of services, liturgy and participation of all ages (those receiving communion may have a separate Liturgy of the Word, but all should be present in the main assembly for at least the Eucharistic prayer)
- Approach the Bishop for permission to proceed, and complete the application form which outlines the process followed so far, and the pattern of preparation and continuing nurture which will be followed
- Communicate the arrangements to the congregation
- In consultation with parents and children's leaders, invite children to consider receiving communion – it should not just be 'the next thing to do'
(NB baptism is a pre-requisite– you will need to check this with families)
- Deliver the preparation course, encouraging parents (and sponsors where possible) to be involved
- Arrange a service at which children will receive Holy Communion for the first time (this will become a regular event)
- A register must be kept of the names of children admitted to communion. If possible their baptism certificate should be endorsed. They should also be given the Diocesan Admission to Communion certificate.
- Write letters of commendation for any children moving to a new parish
- Review the procedures and preparation regularly
- It is expected that 'children' will be presented for confirmation by the age of 18
